I. Introduction

It is of fundamental importance to the development, growth and protection of the Public Protection Partnership (PPP) brand that these brand guidelines have been compiled.

Many organisations invest significant amounts of resources in developing and maintaining their name, image, reputation and identity. A strong brand with consistent applications of an organisation's identity is crucial to develop awareness and to build confidence and trust with key audiences. The PPP's key audiences are set out in section 7 of the PPP Communications Strategy | April 2018 - 31 March 2019 as follows:

- The public
- Staff
- Public sector organisations
- PPP Boards and Committees
- PPP Partner authorities
- Partner agencies
- Businesses
- Elected members
- Community groups
- Charitable groups

The principal elements of the PPP's corporate identity are the:

- PPP logos
- Partner footer
- corporate colours
- corporate fonts.

These brand guidelines detail the corporate identity of the PPP and how it should be applied across the service and its associated projects in all communication that promotes the PPP, both internally and externally, either in print or digitally. There are no exceptions.

This document is for all PPP officers and explains what is and what is not allowed. This document is also for all outside organisations who have been authorised to produce information or publicity material on behalf of the PPP.

In addition to these guidelines we have produced a 'lite' version, a PPP Style Guide, which is a quick guide to how the PPP brand should be applied.

In following the PPP brand rules, officers, members and designers will be playing a vital role in upholding the consistent corporate image presented by the PPP, contributing to it having a strong, recognisable brand and identity.

2. The PPP brand objective

Section 5 of the PPP Communications Strategy | April 2018 - 31 March 2019 sets out:

We will ensure the Public Protection Partnership has a strong, recognisable identity and brand.

By working with Partner council's communications teams we will develop a style guide to apply to all PPP external and internal facing material including the website and digital promotional material, printed literature, MS PowerPoint presentations, print outs and Word documents, to ensure a strong, recognisable identity and brand is used across the service and its associated projects.

For the continued success of the investment in the PPP brand, it is crucial the consistent application of the brand in print and digitally must be adhered to at all times across the PPP. These guidelines are set out to achieve just that – consistency.

Over time it is possible that these brand guidelines will change and evolve. This is natural and with careful consideration and exact change control, updating these guidelines to reflect such changes will ensure that future consistency will be maintained.

3. PPP corporate identity key principles

The service is known as the Public Protection Partnership and it can be abbreviated to PPP as follows:

The Public Protection Partnership (PPP) has a strong, recognisable identity and brand. It is crucial that the PPP develops brand awareness to build confidence and trust with key audiences.

The following logo is at the heart of the PPP's corporate identity and it is the primary PPP logo:

- It is a legal requirement of the PPP Inter Authority Agreement that the Bracknell Stag, the West Berkshire Crest and the Wokingham Crest are always deployed across all marketing and promotional collateral including digital presence.
- A statement of acknowledgement – A shared service provided by Bracknell Forest District Council, West Berkshire District Council and Wokingham Borough Council – will be deployed across all marketing and promotional collateral including digital presence.
- The Bracknell Stag, the West Berkshire Crest and the Wokingham Crest, together with the statement of acknowledgement, comprise the following asset referred to as the Partner footer:

A shared service provided by
Bracknell Forest Council,
West Berkshire Council and
Wokingham Borough Council

WOKINGHAM
BOROUGH COUNCIL

- These branding principles will be reviewed as part of the mainstream review process enshrined in the PPP Inter Authority Agreement. This will include any instances not specified within the Inter Authority Agreement, such as new independent structures and subsidiaries, which will be subject to mutual agreement of specific guidance between the three Councils.
- Each Council reserves the right to withdraw its branding at any time.

4. Technical information

- the PPP corporate fonts and colours

Although the PPP corporate font is Humanist 521 BT other fonts should be used for the following:

All digital communications:

Headings – Calibri
Copy – Calibri Light

PPP templates and internal documents:

The PPP corporate colours are:

Pantone PMS 380, a lime green

Trading Standards:

6. Versions of the PPP logo

The primary and secondary PPP logos are the most recognisable part of the PPP brand and it is important that they are used correctly. There are three versions of these logos:

Two colour

This should be positioned on a white background:

Black and white

The black and white logo should only be used in black and white documents and should be positioned on a white background:

White logo

This version should be used where the logo is placed on a background of PMS Reflex Blue. 8. Use of the PPP logos and Partner footer

The primary PPP logo used in conjunction with the Partner footer should be used on all communications produced by the PPP including:

- Generic PPP correspondence – letters, compliment slips, faxes
- Digital communications - emails, website and social media channels
- Display materials – noticeboards, exhibition stands, banners
- Documents – plans, policies, agendas, reports, minutes
- Identification – security passes
- Office signage and PPP vehicles
- Operational materials – forms, cheques, receipts
- PPP advertising – recruitment advertising, service advertising
- Presentations – PowerPoint, handouts
- Promotional goods - pens
- Promotional materials – posters, flyers
- Publications – leaflets, newsletters, information packs
- Questionnaires
- Service clothing (where appropriate) - polo shirts, coats

The secondary service PPP logos should be used when the target audience needs to know which service is being promoted. For example:

- PPP service specific correspondence – letters, compliment slips, faxes
- Service clothing (where appropriate) - polo shirts, coats
- At a partner event, use of the PPP gazebo (which has the primary PPP logo and the Partner footer) with a feather flag that has the Environmental Health logo with Animal Warden text. It is clear from the branding that the service is the PPP and that the Environmental Health Animal Warden is present.

9. PPP logo/Partner footer position

10. PPP logo/Partner footer size

The PPP logo and the Partner footer should not be used below a certain size. The logo must always be 10 mm high:

The Partner footer has a height equal to 10% of the overall height of the document, so for an A4 document 30mm high:

Neither the PPP logo nor the Partner footer should be stretched:

or distorted in any way:

11. Clear space around the PPP logo/Partner footer

An area of clear space must be left between the logo and other objects such as text, images or borders. This space is equal to the height of the capital B in the word 'Bracknell' in the text of the logo:

12. Obtaining a copy of the logo

Should other suppliers require the PPP logo, it can be obtained from the Lead Officer – Community Engagement and you will need to clarify who needs it and for what purpose so the correct format is provided.

In issuing the logo, it is essential that it is accompanied by these guidelines and the style guide.

Before being published a 'proof' must first be emailed to:

Lead Officer – Community Engagement

13. Print design elements

All brochures, posters, newsletters and leaflets aimed at target audiences outside the PPP should be designed by a graphic design service. In the first instance, direct your request to the Lead Office – Community Engagement who will liaise with the appropriate graphic design service.

The design elements of the PPP brand need to be reflective of the PPP brand and consistent across the range of communications including all printed material and digital applications. The design features below should be studied in conjunction with the Technical Information on page ?? of this document.

- Front Page Header - the header can be white, a shade of the PPP corporate font, or the PPP header image montage. A solid bar in either the corporate blue or green will be placed under the header. White out text can be placed in both the header and solid bar.
- Front Page Footer on single-sided documents a solid bar in either the corporate blue or green will be placed along the top of the Partner Footer. White text, as email address and telephone number, can be placed in this bar.
- Headings the first heading should be in large, bold whiteout text in a corporate blue rectangular solid box. Further headings should be bold corporate blue on a white background.
- Page layout newsletters/bulletins should be designed using the design grid. Note where images and text boxes to be placed. Text box backgrounds to be percentage shades of either the blue or green

Public Protection Update
Keeping the public informed
March 2018

Survey shows that simple steps can help in the control of rats

Following an influx of complaints about rats from Wokingham Borough Council residents and concerns that some residents were not able to eradicate them, the Public Protection Partnership, which delivers Environmental Health services across Bracknell, West Berkshire and Wokingham, has recently carried out a survey in Shinfield, Spencers Wood and Three Mile Cross to find out more about the problem and to advise residents on the best way to deal with the rats.

The survey involved knocking on doors in the areas where the Environmental Health service had received complaints over the last 12 months regarding rats. Of the 179 properties surveyed, 99 properties reported that they have had a problem, 40 households with a problem had not removed food sources and 33 households have no method of control in place.

Cllr Norman Jorgensen, Chairman of the Public Protection Partnership, said "It is clear that not enough households are taking appropriate action when they have rats in their garden or property. The survey highlights that a large proportion of households who have tried to treat the problem failed as they did not use the services of a professional pest controller who can use a stronger single feed bait."

He went on to say: "If you have a problem with rats, you need to deal with it as soon as you can as rats carry diseases that can affect humans and can cause expensive damage to property. Follow our guidance on how to deal with rats effectively:

- Look out for rats, their holes, droppings and runs. If you discover rat activity on your property we recommend you use an accredited and authorised pest controller.
- Reduce areas of waste, woodpiles and overgrown areas so these provide shelter for rats.
- Pest proof compost bins, as rats can easily access them for food, by standing them on chicken wire or mesh.
- Remove bird feeders or other food sources.
- Ensure any animals, such as chickens and rabbits, are kept in pest proof pens with no access for rats.
- Pest proof your property - ensure that all climbing plants are at least one metre away from the eaves of the house, cap off any exposed pipes and fill in any holes in the brickwork."

You can report an infestation of rats or mice on the Environmental Health service's new map at <http://wokingham.westberks.gov.uk/ratsandmice>. Please note the Public Protection Partnership provides advice on infestation but does not undertake pest control.

As a shared service, the PPP delivers Environmental Health, Licensing and Trading Standards to around 450,000 people and 10,000 businesses across the three authority areas. With a wide range of expertise, the service comprises of operational and non-operational teams and dealt with 15,419 enquiries during 2017/18. Our operational teams include Commercial, Environmental Quality, Licensing, Residential Response and Trading Standards, Case Management, Communications, Intelligence and Business Development and Partnership Support comprise our non-operational teams. The following pages will give you more of an idea of the work carried out by many of our

Commercial

The Commercial team works in food safety and hygiene, infectious disease control, food sampling and health and safety such as planned work and accident investigations. Recent highlights include:

Greene King prosecution Following an investigation by the PPP Commercial team, Greene King Retail Services of Westgate Brewery pleaded guilty to one offence in breaching section 2 (1) of the Health and Safety at Work Act 1974 which took place at 'The Six Bell', Shinfield, Berkshire. The guilty plea was entered when they appeared before Reading Crown Court on 17 November 2017 and they received a fine of £140,000 with £10,000 costs. The accident occurred when the boiler at the Hungry Horse pub had broken and repairs had been delayed. Staff were asked to use two litre plastic ice cream cartons as containers to transport the hot water from a tea urn to the sink and to wrap their hands in cloth while doing so. As a result a young member of staff ended up being scalded by hot water which was carried by another member of staff.

Poundstretcher prosecution Following an investigation by the PPP Commercial team Poundstretcher pleaded guilty to three breaches under the Health and Safety at Work etc Act 1974. At the Newbury store this related to the way the company operated its stocking and its failure to properly train staff. The investigation at the Newbury Retail Park store followed a visit undertaken by Environmental Health officers in December 2014. At the time of the visit officers found that emergency exits were blocked and excessive stock was stored in a dangerous manner. Subsequent enquiries revealed that the company did not follow its own safety procedures. Sentencing was on 12 December 2017, after the case had been heard with offences from Swindon Borough Council and Lewes District Council. The defendant was fined a total of £1 million which included a penalty of £333,334 with £24,366.50 costs in respect of the three offences relating to the Newbury store.

Intelligence and Business Development

While the Intelligence and Business Development team is currently the smallest team in the PPP, it is pivotal to the PPP objective of becoming an intelligence-led service.

In addition to providing the 'business as usual' support to the operational and management teams since the coming together of the three member authorities, we have been working behind the scenes performing the first ever strategic assessment of the combined Environmental Health, Licensing and Trading Standards functions. This has culminated in the delivery to the Joint Management Committee in March of the inaugural Strategic Assessment and Control Strategy documents.

These two documents identify the key areas of concern for our communities and set out the operational priorities for the coming year.

Looking to the future...

The Joint Public Protection Committee Approves Priorities for 2018/19

At its meeting on the 19 March 2018 the Joint Public Protection Committee approved its key priorities for the delivery of Environmental Health, Trading Standards and Licensing across Bracknell Forest, West Berkshire and Wokingham for 2018/19.

The priorities that included tackling rogue traders, poor housing, air quality and food safety were developed following an analysis of the all the demands on the service as well as a consideration of local, regional and national priorities.

In addition to identifying service specific priorities which also included product safety, the sale of second hand cars, health and safety, noise and other nuisance and mass marketing fraud, the report also identified a number of cross cutting issues: e-crime, tackling serious and organised crime groups, supporting vulnerable persons and modern slavery.

Each of the priorities is to be tackled with a blend of preventative actions, intelligence gathering and where appropriate employing the use of the various enforcement options open to the Councils that form part of the PPP.

There is also a strong emphasis on partnership working with key agencies such as Thames Valley Police, Royal Berkshire Fire and Rescue Service, other local authorities as well as schools, safeguarding services and the wider community.

In addition the Partnership will continue to respond to the other service requests and enquiries and deliver key important functions such as licensing, animal health and welfare and local issues such as weight restriction and fly tipping enforcement.

Councillor Norman Jorgensen, Chairman of the Joint Public Protection Committee, said, "This was a comprehensive piece of work that demonstrates the breadth and importance of work of the Public Protection Service. It also demonstrates the huge benefits of the three Councils working together to deliver a service that meets local need whilst being able to build areas of expertise that go beyond the obvious areas of expertise such as Licensing, Trading Standards and Environmental Health. This includes its own Case Management Unit, Financial Crime Investigation Team, intelligence function and communications strategy. We look forward to working with the community over the next twelve months as we deliver our priorities to inform and protect the whole community".

We hope you enjoyed finding out more about the Public Protection Partnership. Please contact us on the details below if you would like to know more.

15. Stationery

Stationery design, including letterheads, compliment slips and business cards, needs to reflect the PPP brand and be consistent with other printed and digital PPP communications. There are no design elements as such but the appropriate service PPP colour logo in the top right hand corner and the colour PPP Partner footer across the bottom footer. We also have a PPP generic letterhead with the primary PPP colour logo for generic PPP correspondence and colour partner footer.

16. Templates, forms and PPP PowerPoint presentation template

It is very important that the PPP corporate identity extends to all communications, both external and internal. To help achieve this templates will be provided in Microsoft Word format for all PPP staff to use. All PPP staff must use them. As the PPP has so many templates and forms that need to be co-ordinated across the PPP, amended and then rebranded, a template project has been created that is outside the scope of these Brand Guidelines.

The PPP has a PowerPoint template presentation for everyone to use for both external and internal presentations. The template can be found in the PPP Asset Bank.

17. Photography

Using images

Good photographs can greatly enhance a piece of publicity. They should be current and modern and, where possible, feature people and faces. As a general rule, digital photos to be printed should have a resolution of at least 300 dpi. Do not use clip art or cartoons – they diminish the value of your service. A professional photograph will attract more readers and help make your project a success.

Getting permission

Photographs of people for publications are classed as personal data under the General Data Protection Regulation 2018 and therefore need the consent of the individual before use. In particular, written consent should be obtained in the case of a photo where the subject is identifiable, whether they are to be named in the publication or not. If the subject is a child (under 18), written consent from a parent or guardian is needed. Similarly, where the photo is of an adult who may be unable to give consent, it should be obtained from a carer.

Photos of events attended by large crowds, or taken in public areas do not require the permission of everyone in the crowd shot. That would be impractical, anyway. But if there are people in the foreground readily identifiable, it is advisable to gain their consent for the photo to be used. Where the photo is of a group of unnamed people at a more formal event, it is advisable to speak to the group first, stating where the photo may be used. This gives those in the foreground the opportunity to move away if they wish. Of course, these guidelines also apply to PPP staff, towards whom we have a duty of care. Remember that some staff, because of the nature of their work, may not want to be identified.

The press are exempt from the Data Protection Act, so you should consider parental wishes if you put people forward to be photographed. This can occur where the press are invited to come along and take pictures of a particular event. In these cases it is best to get signed permission forms from parents or guardians. Schools often have their own arrangements for gaining approval from parents or guardians of their pupils. Ask first.

Consent forms

Before taking any photographs or videos, you should ensure that the people are aware that they are being photographed, who is taking the pictures, what they will be used for, and who they will be shared with. You will need to get their consent before you take photos and videos by asking them to sign a PPP Photo/Video Consent Form. The consent forms you will need can be downloaded from the PPP Asset Bank.

Copyright

By law, the copyright on any pictures taken, is owned by the photographer who took them. If you are commissioning professional photographers, always include on the Agresso purchase order the line: 'On payment of your invoice, the copyright of the photographs transfers to the Public Protection Partnership'. Most photographers are quite happy for this.
